

MY FIRST CHRISTMAS AS MRS ROONEY

Posted: Tuesday 16 Dec 2008

This Christmas will be my first as Mrs Rooney, so I'm really pulling out all the stops with our decorations.

Our Christmas trees have just arrived. They are absolutely huge, and are brown, gold and cream.

They look gorgeous in our kitchen and living room.

I would have loved to have done all the Christmas decorations myself, but I've been filming my new series of Coleen's Real Women in New York, so I've had it all done for me by a firm called the Christmas Decorators.

The place looks magical. Wayne is so chuffed.

The next few days will be spent getting ready for Christmas, but I've also got lots of work to do before the big day itself.

I'm doing a photo-shoot for the Variety Club this week and have redesigned the charity's gold heart logo - I'm its ambassador for 2009, which is a real honour.

I've also been busy designing my second jewellery collection for Argos, which will be out in spring next year. Have a truly wonderful Christmas!
